The Broadcast Time Service.

By F. HOPE-JONES, M.J.E.E., F.R.A.S.

[Mr. Hope-Jones is Chairman of the British Haralogical Institute and over one of the Founders and for many years Chairman of the Radio Society of Great Britain. Inventor of the Synchronome System of electric clocks, he is well-known as a "time" expert, and has given several talks from London on Daylight Saving.

LAS anyone attempted to catalogue the benefits which broadcasting, as interpreted by the B.B.C., confers apon humanity? Its education, which is more than culture, because it reaches the masses and sows seeds of patriotism and good citizenship; its gilded pills of knowledge and instruction which reach the humblest homes; always seeking in its programmes the greatest good of the greatest number, with an upward tendency—a little weight thrown in on the side of the angels! All these we know, as also the way it follows the blind man into his lonely desert and brings him back into the world teeming with life and human activities.

But I am proposing at the moment to discuss a smaller matter in which I have had peculiar opportunities for judging of its influence. I refer to the marked improvement in the punctuality of the community resulting from the time signals. Wireless time signals were in use twenty years ago. The U.S.A. Naval Department transmitted them from Washington in 1905, as also did our observatory at St. John's, N.F. Paris distinguished itself by its time transmission from the Eiffel Tower in 1911, and then took the lead in the establishment of an international service of wireless time signals. These were of inestimable value to the Mercantile Marine, and were received by watch and clock makers and by thousands of wireless amateurs in this country in prewar days; but so far as their influence upon our daily life was concerned, this amounted to nothing compared with the chiming and striking of Big

Ben and the Greenwich six-dot seconds which we have had in our homes since the 5th of February last year, when Sir Frank Dyson, the Astronomer Royal, inaugurated the service from " 2LO,"

I don't know whether the number of clocks and watches in use in this country & fifty or a hundred millions, but I do know the makers' opinion that they are mostly ill-treated. Occasionally one meets with a careful householder who makes a religious rite of the winding-up of the clocks on Saturday night; but think of the ladles' wrist watches, which are a byword for inaccuracy, owing to neglect and mismanagement. Every degree of carelessness is to be found between these two extremes, and for most people there was no such thing as a standard to set them by, the flimsiest evidence as to what was the right time being accepted.

Mystery Song of Cornwall.

"And Shall Trelawney Die?" By A. B. Cooper.

THERE would seem to be no form of I literary composition which has drawn to itself more "mystery" than well-known songs. "And Shall Trelawney Die?" is among the most taysterious! Writing about the middle of last century, a writer says: "James II. had occasion in his exile to recall a song which was song by his people to his disconfiture.

He had hitherto been speaking of the many famous decolate sauga, such as " Hore a a Health Unto His Majesty," and many others addressed to " The King over the Water," filled with passionate loyalty to the Strart cause

The Cornishmen's Threat.

He proceeds to say

When that unhappy King desired to hang. or otherwise act rid of several Protestant Bishops, and among them Sir John Trelas or native of Cornwall, and a great favourite in the West of England, the miners of Curnwall, to the marker of several thousand, came up from their some to the bound light of day, and threatened to march upon London, singion :-

And shall Prelatines die :
And must Trelatiney die :
Then thrice ten thousand Consult torm Will know the reason why.

These Cornish fellows with their grim the and their brawny arms, bare to the clow-nielding picks and pickax — mount what they said. The song flow like wildfire through freehold and dones was so frightened by that and some other straws which showed has the wind blew, that he ultimately can away in so great a hurry that he had no time to exploin the reason why.

To lauracy of Bristol was one of the Seven Bestops, known to avery schoolboy, committed to the Tower of London by Junes H. for refusing to read the Decimation of Indulgence. head of an ancient house, Trelawney was held in great respect by the men of Cornwall, and this refram, there is little reason to doubt, is authentic, and arose on the operator and in the way described although it has been neged that the Trelawney mentioned was an earlier secon of the same house who was condemned to death, and as there was never any serious probability of any of the Seven Bishops being actually executed, there is some reason for this supposition. It is not, however, shared by Cornishmen.

A Popular Verdict.

The trial of the "Seven Rishops in one of the most dramatic episodes of English bistory, John Richard Groon anys; "They passed to their prison amidst the shouts of a great multitude, the sentinels knelt for their blessing as ther cutered the gates, and the soldiers of the garrisons deank their beatths... On June 20th, 1088, the Bishops appeared as crimonals at the bar of the Kim's Bench. The jury had been pucked, the judges were nece tools of the Crown, but judges and jury were alike overswed by the indignation of the people at large. No sooper had the foreman of the jury attered the words ' Not Guilly,' than a mar of applause burst from the arowd, and hersemen sparred along every road to carry over the country the news of the acquitted. Another historian says: "It was dark when the jury retired: they were locked up all aight. and at ten next atorning the Court met to hear the verdiet. A deep allence prevailed; but when the words 'Not Guilty' left the foreman's tips, cheer after phose school through the court and the hall which led to it. The growd outside took up the joyful sound, and all London was soon filled with abouts of gladness. That make was a blaze of illumination. Rows of seven candlesticks, with a taller one in the middle for the Archbishop, lit up every window; bonfires were in every street; and rockets correct by bindresis from the rejoicing city. On the very day of the Beshops acquital, a letter signed by some of the leading nobles and clery of England, was sent to William, Prince of Openor.

An Unconventional Post Parson.

But thus is not the end of the story. There is a ballad entitled. The Song of the Western Men 1688. Who wrote it? Is it ancient or is it modern? It deceived both Scott and Macaulay into thinking it an ancient fragment ; but it was, in fact, written, around the serup we have already quoted, by the Rev. Robert Stephen Hawker, of Morwenstow, a muerling and wrecking community on the Cornish coast. where he exercised a reforming and beneficent influence until his death in 1873. Shortly before his death, he was received into the Raman Catholic Church.

The ballad, as "reformed" by Hawker, this extremely unconventional poet purson, is as

A good sword and a trusty hand?
A merry heart and true?
King James's near shall nadicional.
What Carnish lads can do.

And have they fixed the where not

And shall Trelawney die h Then twenty thousand Cernish men Will know the reason why !

Out spake the captain brave and bold,

A merry wight was in ... Though London's Tower Michael's hold. We'll set Trelawiney free!

We'll cross the Tumar, band to hand.

The Severo is no stay With one end all, and hand in band, And who shall bid us may ?

A pleasant sight to view.

Come forth! come forth, ye countle And when we come to Lendon Wall.

Hore's men as good as son.

Trebrency he is in best and held. Trebrency be may dis : But here's twenty thousand Cornish whole question of wireless than signals and the most desirable form of international code. It was found that the six dot swords had won the approval of all parties, not only in England, but throughout Western Europe, and anomnous resolutions were passed recommending the revision of the informational code by the substitution of the alx dots for the three dashes at the end of each minute.

Fortunately, the International Astronomical Union, which has assumed virtual covarid of the world's wireless time signals, held its triennial conference in Cambridge in July this They accepted the recommendations of the British Horokowan Institute so, in spite of our failure to participate in this world service and of our having forfeited the right to share in its honours and in shaping its destiny, we have been able, thanks to Sir Frank Dyson and the B.B.C., to make some contribution to it.

The Broadcast Time Service.

Into this world of chaos comes the cala dignity of the Westminster chimes telling the precise time in crowded city and remote country village, correct to within a second or two, by the first stroke of the hour "when the great cauldien spiffs its brazey roor," or when the still small voice of more exact truth paps out the six not seconds from Greenwich

The effect has been remarkable. The nation has become actively interested in the performance of its clocks and watches. They have found that accurate rating is a gouttenance pole and that there is a fascination in watching the seconds hand erceping day by day a little fast or slow. They are no longer mished by wayward oburch and turnst checks, which themselves have now felt the force of public opinion and are showing abundant signs of reformation.

The Westminster chimes are board by means of a microphone installed in St. Stephen's Tower. The first stroke of the clomes at the quarter past, the half past, and the quarter to are on line, but the chine programme complete begantwenty seconds to the hour and finishes one seconds before it, so as to act as a warning for the first stroke of Big Ben, which is the true tion signal.

The six dot seconds are electrical contacts applied to the scape wheel of the mean time clock of Greenwich Observatory. If there is one clock in Green Britain, or in the world, which are Englishman would choose as his stondard it is this, whose time is derived from frequent observations of the clock stars through the great Transit Circle telescope on the zero mornilar aself, from which the world is percelled out into the twenty done hour zone.

I am often asked why this form of signal was selected, and its origin may be of interest. When giving my first talk on Dayaght Saving. on April 21st, 1923, to the microphone of that day apparently made of an old soap-hox, with some timacks and string-I concluded my barnily an setting the clocks forward by counting out the last five seconds of the hour from my watch. That was the first time signal transmitted from "2LO," and the method was approximately followed by the nanouncers each evening. So, when it came to transmitting Greenwich time, it was thought desirable to give the public something very simple, and preferably something which they had been assustanted to. A code of dots and dashes was in my view, particularly to be avoided, as the transmission was to be arpart of the international service of wireless time codes and it was undesignile to conflict or compete with them. Apart from this, I considered dots better than dashes for accurate clock emparisons

This can has been amply justified. I have spoken of the international service of wireless time signals whose prime object is, of course, to campe that no ship sailing the seven seas shall ever be out of reach of true time. It was established on the mitative of the French Euroan des Longitudes, which called a conference in Paris, in 1912. Every country offered such facilities as it passessed; but, and to say, the British Empire, with its Colonial observatories and high power stations all over the world, offered nothing and, so for as wireless was concerned, we have been dependent upon our neighbours for Greenwick time for all these years. This reproach the B.B.C. have now

In April last, the British Horological Institute called a representative meeting to debate the

A Radio Exhibition.

Wireless at the Albert Hall.

THE thirtieth anniversary of wireless is to be marked appropriately by a great exhibition to Boyal Albert Hall, from September 12th to the 23rd, under the auspices of the National Association of Radio Manufacturers and Traders.

It is now thirty years since Daghelmo Marconi, hen a youth of twenty-one, made the first wireless signal in his father's villa in Pontecchio. near Bologna, across a distance of a few yards from room to room. From these early experimente, steady progress was made and, in August, 1808, wireless telegraphic communication was established between the Royal yacht Osborne and Osborne House, [sle of Wight, in order that Queen Victoria might communicate with the Prince of Wales (afterwards King Edward VII.), who was suffering from the esults of an accident to his knee.

Fifteen Words a Minute !

One hundred and fifty messages were sent, hiefly private communications between the Queen and the Prince; many of them were over 100 words long, and the average speed of transmission was about lifteen words a minute.

In 1890 cross-Channel wireless communication was established between the South Forward and Boulogue, a distance of thirty-two miles. The new method of signalling was employed during seval manuserves for the first time in that year.

Wireless telephony, which had already begun to yield valuable results in 1913, was held up by the war. In 1919 experiments with wireless telephony were resumed. In March of that year, Captain Round succeeded in speaking learly from Ballybunien, in Ireland, to Cape Breton Island, 1,800 miles distant.

Later, in 1919, a small station at Cheimsford got in touch with Madrid, and in 1920 e daily programmie of music and news was broadcast from a bigger station there.

Rapid Strides.

After much negotiation, Writtle, near Chelmsford, was allowed to broadcast in 1021. Writtle will always be esseciated with the name of Captain Schemley, who was its inspiring genius.

And then, in 1922, come the B.H.C., starting with "21.0." In the three years that have clapsed, the number of broadcast stations has immensed to twenty-one, and the number of broadcast ficence holders to about one and a half million, representing the total broadcast constituency, which is estimated at ten million

Meanwhile, wireless telegraphy has made corresponding strides, and has done a great deal to make the world smaller and to baile the barriers of geography and nationality.

Improving Your Set.

The story of the great development of wireless ni all its branches is to be well illustrated at the Royal Albert Hall, when wireless devices of every sort will be assembled by some sixty of the leading manufacturers from all parts of the

But there is another side to this Exhibition of, perhaps, more practical interest. The improvement of radio apparatus is so rapid, and checlescence is such a constant factor, that it is difficult for even the experts to keep abreast with progress. A great exhibition such as that which is being held at the Royal Albert Hall provides a valuable opportunity for listeners to proving their sets.

It is worthy of note that wireless manufacturers are making a practice of regulating their designs and production so that new apparatus becomes available for sale at the time of the N.A.R.M.A.T. Exhibition,

Soldiers at the Microphone.

By Lieut, H. E. Adkins, Mus.Bac., A.R.C.M., L.R.A.M.

[Mr. Adkins, Director of Music, bere continues his account of the development of military bands. This week be aliades to the bands of the R.A. and R.A.F., which are both well-known to listeners.]

HOW the Royal Artiflery bandsmen came to be nicknamed the Forty Thieves his an interesting story belonging to the time of William IV. The unsimane played constantly at the Royal Pulace, usually at night time, and it is related that "very superior wax candles" were provided for their music dealer. After the poor bandsmen returned to their ill-lighted barrack rooms, it was invariably found that the partly-said candles had disap-

After a time, the musicians came to look upon the candles an legitimate perquisites, and, finally, the practice was stopped. But the other soldiers at Woolwich had dubbed the bandsmen the "Forty Thieves," and the nickrunne size le

In the carly days, the R.A. band was the only one in the service that was recognized and for which provision was made in the Army estimates. One hundred pounds per annum was allowed for instruments of music, in addition to payment of wages of one master, one sergeant, two corporals and eighteen musicians. As far back as 1806, the R.A. bandsmen dressed in white, as indeed did the musicians of most regiments. Each band, however, had its peculiarities of dress, such as decorative braids and spaulettes. Some of the intracians in line regiments were bearekin husbies,

Inventor of the Saxophone.

The constitution of bands suffered considerable changes as a result of Wieprecht's work in Gernauty, and also as a result of the work of Adolphe Sax, who instigated a similar revolution in French military music. To him are sacribed numerous brass instruments which he adapted to military use and called them asxhorus, asxtrombes, saxtubas and so on. He has, as a matter of fact, received credit for many wonderful instruments, but most of them were known before his time. He did, however, invent the sexuphone, which is now the principal melodic instrument in many bands.

His instruments appeared in England under the names of althorns, cuphoniums and bom-bardons. The two latter came into prominense first, and were substituted for the old tenor and base ophichids, base horns and serpents. During the same period, wood-wind matru-ments were improved remarkably.

The Disappointed Duke.

At the end of the Crimean War, regimental bands had been reduced to a very deplorable condition. Owing to the shortage of men, many regiments turned their musicians into the ranks, and the bands' disorgunization was also brought about by the absence of bandmasters. These men were civilians, and did not accompany their bands on active service. The climax was reached on the Queen's birthday parade at Varna, in 1858. Before the staff of the allied armies massed bands essayed to play "God Save The Queen."

If you can imagine a number of bands all trying to play this tune in different pitches, you can understand the adverse criticism which the feat called forth. One of the disappointed listeners was the Duke of Cambridge, and when he was appointed Commanuter in Chief of the British Armies, one of his first acts was to issue an order stating that the National Anthem was to be played in the key of B-flat. A special edition of the Anthem was issued soon after, so that all bands could play it in the same

The musicians could not be blamed for this state of effairs, but if our hands were to attain anything like the standard of continental bands, It was evident that a comprehensive schools would have to be embarked upon with the view of reorganizing and standardisting the cotine unlitory band system.

Music Sharp and Crisp.

The rate of pay of bandsmen caused many of them to leave the service as soon as they had acquired a little skill, and it was strongly represented to the Duke of Combridge that not only should the bandemen's pay be increased, but that facilities should be created for their proper and effective education.

That is how the Royal Military School of Music at Kneller Hall, Twickenham, came into being in 1877. The first Director of Music. a post which I now occupy, was a German, called Herr Schallehn,

According to Esteners' reports, I believe that the band of the Royal Air Force, which broadcasts frequently, carries as well as any by radio. It has been said that the numis of their band is sharper and crisper than some other band music, somewhat storeste, in fact.
This is probably an illusion and I can offer no explanation of the alleged superiority of the R.A.F. transmissions, beyond the fact that the individual members of the band are well-trained. competent players, and that the baton is wielded by exceedingly capable hands.

A Beautiful Illusion.

The band of the Royal Marines has also broadcast very encountedly, and so has the Kneller Hall band. One of the most intrresting programmes given recently by Lundon Station included the regimental music of many famous regiments.

I hope I am not destroying a beautiful illusion when I tell you that when the bands broadcast, the players often find it necessary to take off their tunics and play in their shirt-

I have always found that the heavily despet walls of the broadcasting studio have a very depressing affect, not only on the players, but on the conductor also. Pieces which sound quite forte outside, seem to be dead with those hangings all around. I venture to say that most of the military bandsmen who have broadcast would sooner do an hour and a half's work outside, than half on hone before that tarrible microphone ! A further interesting contribution by Lieut.

Adkins next week.]

A New Concert Party, who call themselves the "6LV" Dicky Same, will be heard from the Liverpool Station on Friday, September 18th. A "Dicky Sam " is an inhabitant of Merseyude, and the whole entertainment is designed particularly for Liverpool listeners who, during the evening, are to have on "exclusive peep behind the scales." Another attractive feature in the programme of the Dicky Sams is a short melodrams. An Oscillator's Downfall, wherein the offender meets with his just reward, TUESDAY; RELAYED. TO ALL STATIONS EXCIPT DIVENTEY AND LEEDS-BEADFORD.) MOZARTS last Opera, Die Zu berfiele (The Mogic Flate), has one of the strangest plots possible, but one of the most delightful It conforms with the popular theatrical Inste of the time (1792), combining the funtastic, the exotic, and the opinio. SCENE III. MONOSTATOS (Tenor), a Negro slave who has designs upon Paretra (Soprano), finds her salesp. He is interrupted by Tun Quees of More (Seprano); later, both are Irustrated by Sametru s arrival.

The rest of the Opura must be summed up in a few words. The Pricets impose a Test of Silence on Tamino and Papageno, which the lequacions hird-catcher finds tivescope. All the chief characters have now been introduced except Paragana (Sopraso), a charming little Bird-Wonsen who is won by the bird-catcher after some trouble, including an attempt of his to hang homself. Tamino leads Pamina safely through fire and water by the enchantment of a Magic Flute given him by the THERE GERE.

Papageno has a chime of Magic Rells and a Fird Whistle, which help him slong. At last all ends happily, the two pairs of lovers being greeted with general acclamation.

" THE MASTERSINGERS," ACT III.

(THERMAY; RELAYED to DAVENTEY AND OTHER STATIONS.]

Wagner's one Comedy Opera, The Master singers of Kuremberg, is for many people the best work he ever wrote. Its subject is the sixteenth-century musical Guild of townsfolk, known as "The Mastersingers."

There is a musical contest, which is really between the pedantic, refe-of-thumb members of the Guild, and those who take the side of Walter, a young Knight who seeks admission to the (suid, and, with the aniging of a " Mastersong, the hand of Rva, daughter of the wealthy polismith. Pogner. Walter a clair opponent is Beckmesser, the pompous Town Clerk

A noble figure is Hans Hachs, the cobbler, but much more than a cobbler—a poet and a philosopher, the best loved man in Nuremberg.

Nacha has a tender feeling for Eva, but knows that he is past his youth, and effaces himself, becoming Walter's champion, ACT III.

Moreumoner Day is dawning brightly, the Festival of St. John, the patron Saint of Nurem-berg. The great contest of song is to be held this day. Sectes (Boss) is setting in his room, reading from a large folio. His apprentice, DAVID (Tenos), comes running timidly to him, and a short dialogue between them follows. David asplies to be a journeyman, and sings his song of St. John's Day to Sachs, Presently Suchs sends him out, then sings his long Monologue, in which he meditates on men a incessant strife with one another, and considers how he may turn it to the furthering of the noble ends he has in view.

WALTER (Tenor), who is the guest of Sachs, now comes down, and exchanges greetings with Sachs. He has had a wonderful dream (which Sachs personnes him, after some hexitation, to make into his PRIZE SON(i) of a lovely garden and a beautiful maiden. While he sings, Sachs writes the song down, expressing admiration mingled with criticism. Suchs then takes his guest to propace for the Festival.

lier KMESSER (Hose) now appears. He tried to revenue Eva the night before, but Sasha made a fool of him, and he even got badly knocked about in a disturbance which occurred.

Now for some time, he hobbles about painfully. Suddenly he finds Watter a Song, which Sachs has left lying about, and which, as it is in Sactos handwriting, he takes to be Sachs own. He pockets it. Suchs returns, and Beckmesser challenges Suchs with being his opponent in the contest, and produces the song. Suchs says he can have it. Beekmesser is delighted, though at first suspicious, and goes off to learn it.

When Becknesser is gone, Eva (Soproso) enters Sachs' shop, dressed in white. She complains that her shoe, meaded by Sachs, hurts her, Seen there follows one of the most delicate emotional moments of the Opera; Walter comes down in magnificent knight a costione; he and Kva gaze on one another, Walter sings rapturously, Sachs unohtrusively mends Eva's shoe, singing to himself.

This Scene lasts some little time. Eva's nurse, Manualene (Sopriso), and Sacha' prentice, David, who are betruthed, both come prepared for the Festival; Sachs calls on them. to witness his blessing on Walter and his Song. After the beautiful QUINTET, sung by these five, musing on Walter's "Morning-dreamstory," as his song is called, they go off to the Festival place, where harns and trumpets can already he heard sounding

FINAL SCREE. In the open meadow, there is a seens of merrymaking. Burghers of the guilds, hanner-bearers, all the townsfolk, women, and children are arriving. Last of all come the Mastersingers, with fine pomp and ceremony.

The test is soon told. Beckmesser sings a hadierous parody of Walter's song; Walter sings the true Prize Song, in its full form, and all the people, even the Mastersingers, are greatly moved. Eva places the laurel wreath on Walter a brow, her father, Pogner, given them his blessing, Sachs points the moral, and all the people scelaim "Nuremberg's darling, Sachs!"

"Shanty," "Chanty," or "Skandy "? (From Sir Richard Terry.)

DEAR Sin,—The witty reductio of obsurdant of your correspondent "Nauticus" is a sensible commentary on this foolish controversy-foolish because, had it been started in the old sailing. ship days, it would have been drowned in a burst of Homero laughter from every abeliback affort.

Sailing ships have vanished; their crews are no more. So now any irresponsible landsman can start dogmatising with impunity, not only about the spelling and derivation of the word, but also about its promuciation. This could never have happened in sailing-ship days, for whatever points were then disputable, the one thing beyond argument was the pronunciation.

In those days every sailorman (always, everywhere, and without exception) pronounced the word as sharity —alliterating with shall and rhyming with "scanty"; yet in these days (misled by a bit of bogus arthography which never found its way into print until 1869), one Ends nearly everybody mispronouncing it "chanty," rhyming with "zontie," and on this grotesque mispronunciation (of which no soiler was ever guilty) has been founded the equally grotesque theory that the word comes from the French chaster.

This exhibition of would be "scholarship" is only paralleled by that of the learned gentleman who explained why our Tommics in the late war christened the Australian contingent
"Diggers" Quoth he: The Australian war : "de guerre": digger; what could be more obvious!"

Ah! what, indeed? When cocksure "land-labbers" draw similarly "obvious" deductions about shanties and other nantical matters, one may reasonably class them with the Orresto professor who "had a professor knowledge of all the things that are not so."

Yours, etc.,

R. B. Toney.

Relaying Fereign Stations.

Dran Stn .- I read with amazement the protest of your correspondent Mr. Gill, of Leivester, against Deventry's proposal to imadeast foreigprogrammes once or twice a week.

At present, listeners can select programmes from at loast eight main English stations every night, excluding Daventry. As Daventry gener-ally relays the programme from some English station on several nights each week, surely a couple of nights can be easily spared from these duplicated broadcastings.

The relaying of foreign stations will be of interest technically, quite apart from the pleasure we are sure to derive from hearing a different type of programme from that provided in Britain. The standard of music on the Continent is ligh, and it is narrow-minded to designate foreign programmes as " stuff."

Listeners' Letters. (Continued from the facing page.) " Studio or Stage?"

Dran Sis, May I put in a word on behalf of the "country bumpkin"? We live twenty miles from a town and our entertainments are. therefore, comparatively limited. The theatre a for us (and this must apply to thousands of country-cousins") to all intents and purposes forhidden, and we had with delight any armouncement of a show or concert to be browlesst. The applause, laughter and etenteras incidental to any performance in a crowded theatre are the cauces that veritably make the dish.

Ninety per cent, of our ouccessful thestrical no ramments would be very tame affairs ndeed if performed to an audience of say, two n an otherwise empty theatre. I utterly disagree that stage broadcasting need be in the least less distinct than that from the studio, We are eighty miles from Daventry, but the estimary crystal reproduction of By the Way from the Apollo recently was absolutely perfect, and for the time being we became use of an audience in a theatre and enjoyed every second of it. Yours, etc.,

"Bingivings of a Medizevalist." LURAR Six. The article under the above title, by Mr. Sidney Dark, in The Radio Times would seem to make most of its appeal to any rational being's bump of contradiction !

He does gradgingly admit in a small degree ome good in radio; but practically says that the temptations of a crystal set loop us from tetter use of our time, and furthermore the " should only be available on alternate days! Good music, or with some of us even pate a tired worker into a more Christian frame sind that a parrot-like repetition of all our faulte and shortcomings.

The telephone is not a "curse" to the man tar from the dector, and, like main, is often the of means of recolling a friend as relative to the deathbed of someone dear to us.

Even the abused chema certainly points out to many young girls some of the perils which surround them. Is not that so much to the good? If Mr. Dark is fortunate enough to the good of into passe. I think even he will then admit that radio, amongst other things, has been a real blessing and quite as edocating as entertaining.

Yours, etc.,

Hebden Bridge, H. WALKER.

" Things That Matter."

DRAM Siz,-I wonder if your correspondent who erstreises the religious services and addresses broadcast on Sonday evenings realizes what they mean to many thousands of sick and suffering people in hospitals and doewhere, se well as to countless other listeners? For many of these, this is the only teaching of the "things that matter" that they have an apportunity of receiving.

Messages by this means must reach the hearts of many man church goers as well as those who do go to church, and who appreciate the privilege of so doing.

Youre, etc., Elisabeth W. Pattrick, Lendon, W.

A Licence Suggestion.

Buse See,-I suggest that a wireless licence should take the same form as a motor liquies, chiel a licensee could produce on demand, or show in some place visible to anyone going to his front door-eay, the corner of a window nearest the door. It could well be of a size which would make it neither obtrusive nor sightly, and thus save the holder from unthe new Act. Yours, etc. Hunton, Frank B. Six,

Adventures Under the Sea.

Divers and Their Work.

IF one were to behave all the stories that one hears, one would get the impression that a diver spends most of his time engaged in life and death struggles with shurks and other marine mouster. As a matter of fact, durks do not often interfere with divers, but the late A, Lambert a noted diver, bad an exciting adventure with one in the Indian

Frightening a Shark

He was at work on a coal-holk at Diego Garcia, when a shark annoyed him. It kept on coming nearer day by day, and Lambert used to frighten it away by working his air-escape valve and letting the air out with a rush. After about a week, he got t red of this constant interruption and signalled up to his attendant for a knife and for a rope with a running moose at the end of it. When he had got these articles, he held out his hare hand as bait, and as the shark turned to attack, he stabbed it repeatedly, passed the noose over its body and had it hauled to the surface.

The worst enemy a diver has, amongst the denizem of the deep, is the octopus. If a large octorus gets hold of a diver, it probably becomes necessary to hand both of them up to the surface. and to continue the fight on the deck of the salvage croft.

A Fight in Doop Water.

When salvage operations were in progress on the wreek of R.M.S. Royal George, so well known from the lines. Toll for the hrave, the brave that are no more, 'etc., a fight occurred between two divers in deep water. The two men in question were called Girvan and Jones, and fortunes the two those ways between the control of the control o and between the two there was bitter rivalry. Girvan was trying to clear a certain gun, when he was told by Jones that the gun was his, as he had been the first to find it, as this is the unwritten law of divers. Jones refused to give It up, so they laid a setup.

Jones was the lighter of the two, and finding he was setting the worst of it, decided to retreat, He had actually ascended the shot rope a few feet when Givvan got him by the legs. In the ensuing light, one of the windows of Girvan's belinet got smashed. Fortunately, their attendante had realized that something was wrong, and hauled the two of them up, when Girvan was found to be in a pretty bad state and had to go to hospital. He soon recovered, however, and the two became the best of friends.

Sank Four Times.

A notable wreck where divers were em-ployed was that of R.M.S. La Lutine. She was a captured French ship, and was lost off the Dutch coast with about £500,000 on loard. She lies on a sandy bottom, and, in consequence, gets buried in sand, with the result that she has first to be found, and then powerful suction dredgers have to be used to remove the sand, but in spite of this, over £100,000 has been recovered.

There was also the case of sa. Hypotia, which sunk off Cibraltar. The solvage people sent their divers down, patched her up, and raised her, whereupon she promptly sank again. She did this no less than four times, which must have nearly broken the hearts of her salvors. However, the fifth time was lucky and they

To come to recent times: there in that wonderful diving feat by which £4,750,000 sterling, out of £5,000,000 lost, was reduced from the work of the Lambde. She was convying £5,000,000 in gold to the United States when she was torpedeed by a German submarine and mink in 120ft, of water, of the coast of Donegal.

Operations were that started during the week and were under the direction of Commander Damant, R.N., who, with Lieut. Catto, R.N., holds the deep-water record for practical work. This depth was thirty five fathons, or 210ft One day, a German submarine appeared, with the result that the salvage ship had to ent and run without having time to hand the diver up quintly. You can imagine what the divers feelings were on finding binuelf whirled off his feet and lowed along.

THE PROPERTY.

Eventually, they got him into the salvage craft and put him into the decompressive chamber. Incidentally, talking is compressed air makes the voice very supraky, and it is almost impossible to whatle. The second spring, the sides of the ship were found to have col-lapsed and explosives had to be used. Then the treasure got buried in saind and powerful suction pumps had to be used to remove it.

An exciting case of the recovery of treasure was that of the Hamillo Muchell, which was wrecked on the Lousonna Rock, off the aparth of the Yangtee. She had specie to the value of £80,000 on board. A Captain Lodge molestook the salvage of the specie, and having so-gaged two experienced divers, Messa. Ridyani and Penk, proceeded to Shanghai, where he chartered the pilot patter Maggie,

Cheed by Pirales

After searching at depths of from 120ft, to 180ft, the wreak was found, but it was also discovered that the after part, containing the treasure, had slipped off the ledge on which the ship had rested, and had dropped down into about twenty-six fathoms. Ridyard eventually got into the treasure room and found that the boxes had been caten away by worms, and that the dollars were lying about. He made four successful trips, on the last one of which he sent up the contents of about sixty four boxes,

When he got up he was thirsty, so Penk said he would go to the top of the uland and get him some spring water. When he get there he looked round, and saw a large number of junks bearing down on the island, so hurrled back and told Captain Lodge, who soon realized they were pirates. The cable was slipped, but as there was very little wind, they had to have recourse to oars, Ridyard, through rather exhausted, beining. Eventually a breeze sprang up, and, helped by the darkness, they evaded the pirates and got into Shanghai.

A Gallant Font,

Another case was that of the Alphonso XII, which sank in 162ft, of water off Grand Canary. The late A. Lambert, whom I mentioned in connection with the shark episode, successful in getting £70,000 in gold,

Lambert was the bero of a gallant feat in con-nection with the Severn Tunnel some years ago, when it got flooded. A door in a drainage tunnel had been left open. This door was about a quarter of a mile from the shaft, where the water rose forly feet.

On this occasion a suff-contained drame dress was used. It was the first time Lambert had been in this type of dress, so he had an hour or two a instruction and then set off to see what he could do. In places there was deep mud, and at une spot there was, owing to fall, only just room for him to prowl through. Eventually, after being away for an hour and a half, he returned for a smaller pickage, having done something towards closing the door. Later, he went down and completed the job.

"ELECTRON," THE WIRELESS FAIRY

By Uncle "JACK FROST"

HERE B n talk broadcast from Lon don. by Umle Jack Frost, that is certain to Literest you nil.

Have you ever accu the little First who to say think

You can help the weatherful Butle land of space wireless fauries. which call the other? It is a really wonderful fund because it stretches everywhere and is everywhere. Everything which we call solid is really made up of a very great number of tagthings called atoms, and those atoms are made op of hir smaller things called "cleations. The name ' electron' is the name which we e to our wireless fairy.

When you stand in your garden, or in the oper air, on a clear night when the stars are shoring and you look up into the sky, you feel oon very wonderful everything is and how versmall you are by comparison with the world in which you five. And if I were to stend beside you and were to tell you that those stars which you see are, most of them, millions of nides away, and that they are larger than the world on which we are living, I m sure that you would feel awed. Suppose that you and I could take a tiny a dignered to the shoot such shoot and broom prorest on, magnifying grass, what do you then a should see? The very strongest magnifying glass, or interescope as it is ended would not show up all that there is to see. If I en ld lend you a magic glass to peen through at that piece of wood you would see that the wood which to your eyes had looked no nout now appeared to be formed of countless millions of tiny pieces called atoms, and those atoms would look as though they were as distant from each other as the stars in the sk-

But yet we have not seen the smallest thing occa se, in each atom lives the little electron. our wireless fairy, and he is an very small that housands and thousands of them could by a sort inside the atom and never bump into each other. Even though these little fairles are so very small they are very strong and very powerful and 1 is they who cause a noturbane or ripple in that wouderful space hand the e ner-in which they live. When that disturb ance, or wave, or repole, comes rolling up against your serial you, with the help of your receiving set hear what I have to say, although I am * thang in a room in Sever Hill in front of a pages of apparatus called a microphone New I want to fell ye been in our permit on her but barbs wareless have the charges to a work of giving you strong and clear reception.

Not everything nor everyone is trying to he'p him, because, although he makes the ether disturbance a very strong one, it is but a very weak distarbance by the time that it reaches you. It is so weak that the tiny electron fairles which live in your receiving valves, if you are using them, have to work ever so hard to make it stronger, so that it may be strong enough for 3 00 to hear elearly

In each valve live some of those fairles-the more valves there are the more fairies thee will be. But more valves than are necessary wal make the number of farmer too many, and they will perhaps, suffer harm. If you catoo much, you have a paint; if you did not cut at all, you would be ill. You have to eat enough but not too much. It is just in the same way that you should look after your set. If you give il plenty of power to use, the power which cames from the wave caused in the other home of the wireless farry, the receiving not which you are using will be able to work well, providing that it is itself quite healthy and well. We you and I-must see to it that the lawy at the broadcasting station who has worked so hard in making the wave has the best help from a that is possible

I see are several ways in which we ose help form. The first is by soung that the serial which we have is a good one. Just go and look as we man al, wherever it may be. Lett of the or we see . If it is a long one in the garden are as see were, it should be between 70 and 00ft in length, with if passible, a lend-in wire of not more than 10 or 15ft; the shorter that is the better. If your acred has two wares it is called a "twin" aerial. Its length is not the total length of wire found by adding the two lingths at wire together, but is the length of pust one of them. This length should not be more than about 60ft,, nor less than 30ft, and the lead to wire should be not more than 10 to 15ft long.

You can receive well with your serial longer or shorter than this; but any great differences from these lengths would, perhaps, lessen the best working of it. In any case, if you find that your senal is too long, or too short you would be belong the electron fairles if you brought it as nearly to the length that it should be as you can. You would soon find out if they were pleased by noticing whether or not the power which you received was better, or worse than

Making The World Dance.

By Nat D. Ayer, the Composer.

Mr Nat D. Ager will broadcast to all Stations on Wednesday, September 16th, as the special feature of the work. As a composer, he has given in some of the most tuneful melodies of the day, but he is perhaps best known for The Sing Boys, and The Sing Boys on Broadway.

THE "dance ' song has ever been popular; but since the advent of the racio, it has Dereased in popularity tenfold. The pull olways ready to hum the latest melody, and yow that, in addition to the piano and grainphone, there are regularly the bayey Banda " on the air, all Great Britain is able to dance at the same time to the melody of the moment

The life of the popular song is short. It used to last for three years; now, lew survive longer then three months. But a "short life and a guy one" is the best, and to dease- ne to think that my includue have been excrume due an giving the public a little pleasure.

Sadere Inspire the Fox-tret.

I cannot remember when I was not able to play the piane. In my school days I used to compose melodies for the school plays, but, of course, pax was then anborn. I stumbled on the first fox-trot by chance. I was toucing across America, and at a dance in San Francisco I was amusing myself at the plane. Tiring of dancing, two sailors begun sparring, whilst I attempted to fit music to their movements. It was thus, in 1910, that "King Chanticleer, the first fox-trot, was created, the very first instance of "break-rhythm.

My first appearance in Great Britain was in 1912 at the old Tivoli, London; and my first hig " hit " was " Ob, you beautiful doll." Then followed the covues, H llo, Ragtone I Pell Mell. and The Hong Bags, which contained, perhaps, my greatest success, "If You Were the Omy

Garl In the World."

The music for Yes, Uncle, and The Bing Boys on Broatheay, I wrote in one month whilst at the front in France; and financially they were my most successful scores.

Jazz, although strictly not a new discovery there are traces of it in the old Hungarian and Russian masters—it certainly still in its in lange. It will soom become, if such a term can be used, "shasual," june. We already have "symphone" sympopation. George tershwin, whom I consider the greatest exponent of synoopsted muric, has recently completed "A Rhapoody in Blue," a "symphonic jaza" composition that has caused s revolution in the American music world.

Making Sure.

Good orchestration is essential for a successful dance melody, and that is where the Americans score. Their compositions are well thought out, excellently orchestrated—the first-class orchestras retain two men especially for this purpose. and rehearsed many weeks before they are played publicly.

I remember an occasion during the vont of the famous Paul Whiteman orchestra to these shores when a player made a mistake. At the conclusion of their performance, in the early hours of the morning, Whiteman took off is cost, and rehearsed his men for two hours ; to make sure that the same mutake would not Occur again.

Owing to the enormous number of songe available to the public howadays, a good lyne in addition to a good melody is necessary to create interest. I have written most of my own lyrica; because few lyric writers play the piano, and, therefore, lack the casentual sermo of rhythm. A good syrie should engrest a time to the composer

At a recent gathering of some musural friends

the subject of the division of royalties came up. Some thought the lyric writer should receive a lar r percentage than the composer, and others one tar s. A and of defence entered my head and I alenced all when I said: "Do the combination on the transition age of Strumming on the piano the other day for the benefit of my little right year-old boy, I played, "If You Were the Only Gir.

Don't compose that, daddy someone did that a long time ago

I nicked up the threads of many old facut ships through my first broadcast over two hundred atters from lateration cluding many from almost forgotism friends.

I consider that first broadcast one of the great moments of my life—the greatest being the occasion at Vimy Ruige, when I heard all the troops around me singing "The Only to riin the World, ' as they went over the top,

BELFAST will broadcast 'Stam of Eve," a programme performed entirely by women, on Monday, September 14th. It will include violin solos by Miss Phyllis Tate; Miss Evvs Kerr, Muss Muriel Childe and Miss May Curran will sing tries, and there will be a talk by Miss Ethel Harding on "Vencouver Indian The announcer will be Miss Eyen Kerr.

THERE is an atmosphere of youth and bereziness about some of Manchester's programmes for this work. To-might, Friday, September 11th, the 2ZY * 7 30 Revne, sixth edition, will be produced; while on Saturday, September 12th, a Light Symphony Concert relayed to Davente, Williams P. H. Cawens Overtine I in Butter's Bull," and Elgars "Wand of Yant ste

Nor long ago, a listener in Lescrater asked the R.B.C. to broadcast a measage to her son in Massachusetta, whose address she did not know, and from whom she had not heard for many years. The R.B.C. forwarded this message to the Station Director of "WBZ," Springfield, Mass. The day after this station had broadcast the desired message, they received a telephone call from the man sought after, and muther and son were soon in communication ago.n.

A Quaint Musician.

By Francis Grabble.

ISTENERS may find it hard to believe that a musician once made a great reputafrom as a virtuese by performing on the jews barn. Nevertheless, it is true, and the stene of this remarkable artistic triumph was London, and no less important a centre of London culture han the Royal Institution

The in comen was a German named Edisc stein, born in Wurtemberg in 1802. His parents were respectable tradespeople. His moreor was seft a widow when he was quite a child. He wanted, from his carliest years, to make music his profession, but she would not let him, preferring to apprentice lum to a bookbinder. His master having dismissed him because he had earght him reading a book when he ought to have been binding it, she sentmin to serve behind the counter in a hardware shop, kept by a severe woman who had no sympathy with any of the arta.

Learning Under Diffiguities.

Her objection to music was particularly rong. She regarded it so the most disagreestrong. able of nomes; and so young Enforcement "lived in." he could not play on any ordinary musical instrument without getting into trouble. She would not let him practise the violin in his bedroom. Still less would she let him play the French horn. But jews harps were a part of her stock in trade; and young Eulenstein, having once heard a customer extract a pleasant melody from that instrument, decide I to try whether he could do the same.

He found that he could; and he practised, night after night, burying hunself under the bed cothes to do so, in order that the woman might not everheer ham. After two years' diligent-practice, he was preferent,

To Conquer the World

The accret of his interest was his discovery of a means of tuning the kerps by leading the tongue with sealing-wax. He tuned several of them, so as to be able to command an extensive scale and play in any key. No fewer than sixteen of these jews harps lay on the table before him when he started to perform. He picked them up and used them down as required, and office had as many as four in as mouth at the same time

He further learnt, after another twelve months' diligent study, how to perform without making ugly faces, distracting to the attention of audiences. That done, he left home, at the age of nineteen, with the German equivalent of twenty shillings in his poaket, to conquer the world with his art, walking from town to town and giving concerts wherever he could persuade anyone to listen to hus.

A Royal Command.

Again and again he found himself on the yorgaof starvation. But he had the knack of making friends who gave him good introductions, and so gradually became, as his biographer puts it, an object of carrienty and interest." H's British sponeor was the Duke of Gordon, through whose industries he was bondured with a command to play in the presence of George IV., and an invitation to perform before all the leading scientific lights of London,

Then however, a tragic modortune overtook hon. His feeth began to succumb to the strain resposed upon them, and he found that he could not strike a note without soffering exeruciating tortore. He was in despair, and talked of committing spiciale, but decided to consult a dentast, who ingeniously contrived a case or covering to protect his tooth from the painful contact. Once more he could play so well as even

In the end he returned to Germany, where he survived to the age of eighty-eight.

Animal Life. The Drama

By Professor J. ARTHUR THOMSON.*

A LL the world's a stage," as Shakespear-said and on that stage ever thanking has been played the long drawn-out drama of ammal life. One hears nowalays of dramas or meledrature that go on from evening to evening for a week, with on nufolding plot like a sor a sorry and soufe Chinese dramas are said to ass months; but what we have to thusk of now is a drama that has continued for hundreds of millions of years. And there is as yet no aign of the last act.

A Changing Stage. Suppose we could make a rineria Blm of the changing corth and its changing inhabitants all through the geological ages-think of the great earboniferous forcets, for instance, whose fragments formed our coal measures. Suppose we allotted a proportionate length of film to each of the geological periods according to its duration, and that the unfolding began at ten a clock in the morning, when would the port of the film relating to man come before the speciators? At the very earliest just a few minutes before midnight

Man's whole story is just a tick of the geological clock. We are children of a day, and so short-lived that we hardly realize that everything flows. A veleran naturalist once showed us a little island in a river, and said : "I have seen in my idenime the making of it all." So it is with everything -e changing stage it is. You remember Tempyson's fine lines.

There rolls the deep where grow the kee, O Barth, what changes hast then seen here where the long street rours had been, The stillness of the contral sea

The loils are shotows, and they flow From form to form, and nothing stands, They shalt like mist; the solid lands Like church they shape themselves and go.

Sorders at Anglers.

Hunger and love are the chief pivots of an anal and human life, and there is often a good deal of the dramatic even in bread winning. We can sometimes detect a herring gall lifting a sea urchin or a clam in its bill and letting it fall on the rocks below so that the shell is broken. Our rooks sometimes do this with freshwater musels, and the Greek eagle is said to do the same with the invulnerable Greek tortoke.

There is a beautoul apider in Australia, called the Magnificent. which has an extraordinary method of bread winning. She luwers herself from a twig, paying out a silk thread for a few inand makes a short thread with a sticky globule at the end.
When a small moth comes flying past, the spacer jerks the sticky globule against the insect, and then draws in its booty and procood to such it

There is a South African spider that does much the same thing, but it keeps its short thread con thought moving, for a quarter of an hour at a time, till the sticky git bule becomes dry and uscless, and has to be replaced, just as an angier has to replace his worn bait. The behaviour of these spiders is dramatic in its ingenuity, and we need not believe those naturalists who try to make out that the creatures are not aware of what they are doing

Do you know Professor Wheeler's story of the triple alliance? In the forests of British dispathere is a tree called To have the relator to the laboraum. Its leaves have swollen starks full of palatable pith. A little kind of beetle bores into the leaf-stalk and two of them set up house there. They soon come to an end of the amber coloured to bus I hen was lo they do but bring in some minute rarel, bugs to be their servants, or rather their out lemesly bugs are able to get more out of the leaf stalk than the beetles could extort, and they exude a awest clixir, just like the honey-dew of green-film, last as some ante have learned to milk certain. green-fires, which serve them as cows, so he beetles both old and young have learned to massage the mealy bugs thus inducing them to exude some of the life-austraining clixic. Here then, is a triple alliance, tree beetles, and mostly bugs bound up together. Some ross a se take the place of the beetles.

As Interrupted Fight.

But it is time that we turned from breadwinning to love-making. One Easter holdsy we explored Glen Brora, in Sutherlandshire, to see the tournament of the Black-cock. Early out to only before summe we had in a walled in sheep-fold, beade a level sward on the hillarde, where we had been told that the Black cock jousted.

After a while, two cocks arrived, then more, till there were mght. They began to fight, riching at one another furiously, striking with hill and feet, and uttering house once. They leaped into the air, they trailed their wings like forkey-cocks, they raised their tails, showing a ducate of white silver. The rising sun trans-figured them; their dark plumage showed w interful blues and greens; the rad wattle above the eye shows out vividly. The fun wax fast and furious. But there came a rustle amonthe branches of the aking trees, it was the arrival of the Grey Hens, so they are called.

Uniont in a muraent the atmosphere changed. The fight stopped and a dauce began. The Blackcook were no longer Jonstong with one another; they were showing of their good points before the Grey Rene, who seemed to be interested spectators. There was strutting and promenade, , they raised their took and scraped with their wings, they leaped and shouted.

Love-Making by Light Signals.

It was then that we became so interested a the mysteries that we found the peep-hole quite insequate, and looked above the wall. But instantaneously there was a beating of wings, a rustling in the alder branches, and au empty stage.

Let us get on to the magic carpet and fourney to the mendows around Bologus. It is tate on a summer evening, and everything is quiet, except some from creating in the march and a nightingale singing in a copes. But there are sparks in the sir; damning up and down with changeful brillindee; these are the male fire-flier, or Lociolas, luminescent beetles related to the British glow-worms. But there are stationary lights here and there among the gram; these are the female fire-flies with a or brent kind of glow. Light signals in the air are answered by light signals on the ground, and the males settle down, a circle of them around each female. Then there are lights from the circumference and lights from the center, and the luminous questions and knowers ontime for a long time.

It is perhaps makinght before the coquette makes her choice and the assembly breaks up.

Killed Through Overweek,

Again the magic carpet, and we journey to an African forest where borntelle ure at here Rather clumey fareds they are, flying heavt, with a house cry between the tooting of a motor-horn and the braying of a jackass. It is the nesting tone, and the female bird is out of corts and ill at once. They find a hole in a tree, despening it if recessary, or rusing the floor with fragments of wood if it is too deep. The entrance is plastered up with mud and resin, till only a small aperture is left, which will let the male's bill in. The imprisoned femore than one, and then the male has the tank of feeting her and his. He brings fruits and fuicy parts of plaus, and sometimes also a mouse, all neatly done up in a secreted envelope like the skin of a sausage. He hands this over to his more soned spouse, passing it in his fall through the tuterow opening which shuts out intruders,

By and by there at usually a happy re-amon, but naturalists tell us that the male bird is sametimer an overworked in his dototion that he dies. Then abother male an more to the widow adcast of Hamilet) "That, my boy, to the way I want to do Hamilet They can't throw thange at one then !" Actor (listening to broadcast of Hamist) next time by wireless.

The new Brown'A'

A wonderful manufacturing achievement

I is doubtful if there is a single wireless enthusiast who has not heard of Brown A-type Head-phones. Not everyone, however, who has coveted them has been able to buy them-in fact, owing to their Comparative high price, only a small proportion have been able to enjoy their advantages.

Brown A-type-with their famous super-sensitive tuned reed mechanism—have always been acknowledged to be the world's best headphones and in a class apart from competition Governments, shipping and telegraph companies have all paid tribute to their wonderful efficiency and have taken the bulk of the available supplies.

But the insistent demand for a cheaper instrument compelled us to consider the production of a modified A-type Headphone suitable for mass production on a large scale.

Twelve months have been spent in designing the new Brown A-type We can now guaranter that they contain all the essential details of the famous tuned reed mechanism -that in sensitiveness they are still without equal—that the same superb 38rown standard of workmanship is maintained That in short, although produced in huge quantities by the aid of the most elaborate and costly machinery, they are in every way comparable to the world-renowned standard Brown A-type.

Their production at the low price of 30 - now places them within the reach of every wireless enthusiast

To the Trade: Should you experience any difficulty in obtaining Brown Loud Speakers or Headphones you may order direct from us. A special department has been set up to handle all trade anguiries with the utmost speed.

What has been described as the most picturesque and interesting of the many Exhibitions held in London every year is the All-British Wareless Exhibition, housed within that historic monument—The Royal Albert Hall.

The Exhibition, which will be held under the auspices of the National Association of Radio Manufacturers and Traders, is representative of the rapid progress and solid excellence of Radio Broadcast Reception in the Home There, Makers and Traders will display the best that Britain produces in an alluring array calculated to please the eye and tempt the acquisitive faculties, the gallery this year being used in addition to the ground floor. Entertainment with Education for every home and to suit every pocket, is the keynote of this unique show.

Everyone knows the Royal Albert Hall. You can get there from any Underground Station. Buses pass the door. Be sure to go early, for there you will find the means by which to make delightful our long winter evenings.

THE TUNGAR solves the battery-charging problem for all whose homes are electrically-lighted by alternating current. It is connected on one side to any lampholder or wall-plug, and on the other to the battery (the work of a moment). It starts charging as soon as it is switched on There are no chemical or mechanical complications—its operation is purely electrical and there is nothing to get out of order. It requires no attention and can be left on all night.

The Royal Road Better Radio

ROAD lined with one success after another; milestones marked by the triumphs of the expert; the results of prolonged experiment and scrupulous care. The Burndept Catalogue tells the story of the wonderful Burndept Range, which includes components and complete receivers. One reads the Catalogue, partly for the pleasure it affords, partly for its instructive powers.

One hundred pages of concentrated interest are devoted to our apparatus. From page to page, instrument to instrument, the Catalogue describes in words and pictures. the finest apparatus in the world

The latest achievement of our experts is the seven-valve Ethodyne, a wonderfully powerful and selective Super-heterodyne receiver, which is practically as simple to operate as a two-valve receiver. Space here does not permit us to illustrate this set, but the Catalogue has seven whole pages devoted to the instrument, its technical and artistic perfection and its ease of operation.

Cut out the coupon below, and post it to us at once. In return we will send you a copy of our Catalogue. The Cover is printed in four colours, and every page will interest you from end to end.

4 PIN WECOVAL VE 16/6.

That elusive distant station will readily respond to Western Electric Wecovalves and Headphones.

Remember that the best components give the best results in the long run and you cannot do better than pin your faith to apparatus that has been proved by all wireless experts.

The Wecovalve has now been fitted with a special tape filament which makes it the most robust dull emitter on the market. It operates perfectly from a 14-volt dry cell, and is wonderfully silent and reliable in service.

Power Valve. A new product requiring 4 volts for filement supply. Gives excellent amplification without distortion and is absolutely silent in operation of batteries is necessary to obtain the clearest reception, greatest volume, and maximum range from your set therefore, you should choose Lucas "Milam" Radio Batteries because of their certainty in operation.

Lucas Radio Batteries are moulded in one piece from "MILAM", our new moulding material, which overcomes the disadvantages of ordinary radio batteries. "Milam" is entirely acidproof, gives great mechanical strength to the battery, and eliminates the necessity for a separate outside case The appearance of these Batteries is handsome—their finish resembling polished ebony—and each model is provided with a deep, well-fitting." Milam " lid of pleasing design.

The large bore vents are clean and effective, the terminals robust, and another special feature is the strong leather carrier (with its neat and positive attachment) which facilitates handling-a boon when the battery needs re-charging.

The First-Fruits of Gigantic Research Collaboration-

HE combined forces of the Philips and Mullard Technical Research Organisations have achieved the first of many wonderful developments in the perfection of radio valves.

The first objective of this gigantic research collaboration was to produce a master loud-speaker valve with vastly increased life and reduced current consumption. The P.M.4 Valve is the result of their labours. No finer valve has ever been offered to the British radio public.

The Laboratories from which this master valve has emanated employ the services of over a hundred skilled technical radio experts. From end to end the P.M.4 Valve will be entirely of British manufacture.

For complete information ask your dealer for Leaflet V.R. 28.

Mullard

Adat. The Mailard Wireless Service Co., Ltd., 45, Nightingale Lane, Balhom, London, S.W.12.

THE modern motor car and the growth of wireless have made the storage battery—once a box of mystery—a vitally interesting subject to everyone.

September 7th to 12th provides a unique opportunity to acquire information, help and advice. 450 Service Stations and thousands of traders are making special displays of the scores of different types of Exide batteries. They will be pleased to explain and demonstrate the reasons for Exide superiority.

See the displays and ask for leaflets.

The incomparable reputation earned by the standard Mar. coniphone Long Range Receivers will be maintained to the full this season. And added fame must surely come to the name Marconiphone through the new receivers, types 21, 31 and 41.

For the coming season the new Sterling "Mellovox" Loud Speaker, the improved "Baby" Loud Speaker and the wonderful pedestal sets will confirm with convincing force the truism that those who buy Sterling buy best.

"Dinkie" and "Audivox II." Loud Speakers, the full series of 1, 2, 3 and 4 Valve Receivers; "Lilliput" Headphones and the tested and trusted range of Sterling components remain to meet persistent demand.
